ECONOMIC IMPACT

- In 2024, Lockheed Martin had 13,181 suppliers more than 12,200 across the U.S. and 932 around the globe.
- Lockheed Martin has committed $36B to our suppliers in every U.S. state and 52 countries.
- In 2024, Lockheed Martin awarded $6.9B to more than 7,100 small business suppliers.

PRESSURE-TESTED INNOVATION

Lockheed Martin is committed to delivering the best military capabilities in the world, better than any potential adversary can hope to have. Our most critical investments in 2024 ensure continued air dominance for America and its allies.

Lockheed Martin's air dominance solutions integrate next-gen and existing capabilities using drones, AI, autonomy and more. Beyond the skies, superior aircraft and technology connected through 5G-level, cyber-hardened data links integrate military capabilities across domains in space, at sea, on land and in cyberspace, providing a strategic necessity for unmatched military might.

21ST CENTURY SECURITY®

Lockheed Martin aims to build a more advanced, resilient and interoperable defense industry - working with industry and commercial partners to deliver cutting-edge capabilities faster and more affordably to customers.

The three lines of effort are:

- Aggressively adopting and inserting digital technologies into the defense enterprise with a standards-based, open architecture approach.
- Applying anti-fragility measures to ensure operations withstand shocks and disruptions on a large scale and at a faster speed.
- Fostering a more collaborative ecosystem that harnesses the advanced infrastructure of the U.S. and its allies to support America's strategic alliances.

FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE

In 2024, Lockheed Martin invested over $3B in advancing our nation's security through research and development and capital investment to support customers' missions, drive innovation and transform operations with the latest digital and manufacturing technologies.
